

OLD COLONIST'S DEATH.

Miss Eleanor Edwards, an old colonist, whose grandfather, William Edwards, a Waterloo veteran, arrived in this State 99 years ago on the Rockingham, died at her home in Claremont on Saturday. Miss Edwards, who was in her 86th year, was born at Guildford, and she was the eldest of a family of 10. She spent the greater part of her life in York and took an active interest in Church work. The Swan Boys' Orphanage and other institutions are indebted to her for her work. She resided at Albany for several years, but for the last 23 years lived in Claremont. The funeral took place in the Church of England portion of the Karrakatta Cemetery yesterday conducted by the Rev. H. H. Harper.

The chief mourners were Messrs. K. Edwards (brother), H. M., R. and R. W. Edwards, C. W. Seabrook and K. Farrington (nephews), W. M. Edwards and J. Ley (great-nephews), and E. W. Gillett. The pall bearers were Dr. A. E. Martin, and Messrs. B. H. Darbyshire, H. St. G. Bird, J. A. Miles, T. L. Kendall and Stuart Price. The funeral arrangements were in the hands of Arthur E. Davies and Company.
